One day me and my family went a hike up Bathurst hills. We stumbled upon a house on the only flat surface on the hills. So we decided to knock on the door and to our surprise a nice old lady opened the door. We asked if we could come inside as it was cold. She said "Ofcourse, your just in time for supper". When we went inside she gave us a cheese toastie with some hot chocolate. She then went to the toilet while we eat our toastie. It had been about 10 minutes after we finished our toastie and she still hadn't come back so my mum shouted through and told her we had to go as it was getting late but there was no answer. So we went to walk out the door but it ~~was~~ locked we were trapped. Suddenly we heard the floor creaking so we politely shouted "Can you open the door please." there was still no answer then we heard a bang we got frightened then we heard running. She had a knife and sprinted at us so we tried door again it opened so we ran out the door after about 10 feet we looked back and the house it was gone the old lady she was gone it was all gone.
