☆Bathgate Hills☆

Bathgate hills are over 330 million years old and many weird things have happened there. Especially because it is haunted. There has been multiple spooky sightings such as the ghost on top of Cairnpapple rocks. I will tell you about that now.

It was a dark night in Bathgate hills, this man decided he wanted to go for a walk in Cairnpapple. He started climbing up the hill when he got a chill down his spine, he turned around but nobody was there. He walked up a few footsteps more when he felt scratching on his ankles. He looked down and nothing was there. He looked about and seen a glowing figure in the woods "Hello.. is anyone there" He was thinking about turning back but something stopped him. He looked back and it was all darkness. Just black, nothing else. He kept walking as it seemed like the only option.

When he eventually got to the top he was exhausted. He stopped to catch his breath when he felt scratching on his ankles again. He looked down to see hundreds of tiny creatures biting his ankles but when he blinked again. They were gone. He looked back longing to go down but he was floating. He blinked again and everything was normal. He began running down the hill as fast as possible. Before he could reach the bottom he fell and landed in mud. He tried getting up but he felt someone holding him down. He fought back and got up. Until someone pushed him and he was never seen again.
