

5.09.22

Bathgate hills at Night

One night me, and my friend where all hanging out as rain was gulling down the window. Eyes heavy with sleep my friend out of no where goes. "Oh cool, look some people are near Bathgate hills." "What so good about bathgate hills it just a huge space of green grass." I said back to her. Her huge blue eyes looks up at me and says to me in a shocked voice, "You dont know about Bathgate hills!? No you need to go there, the now, right now!" She dragged me over getting her shoes on and unlocking the door. "Jesse its literally pitch black outside." I yelled out to her "Thats even better we might catch some cool stuff like Aliens!" I rolled my eyes and just put up with her.

There we where at 11pm driving to this Bathgate hills place. As hours had passed we had made it to a place filled with grass and trees. "This looks amazing." I said glancing my torch at the vacant hills, "So what are we doing?" I was cut off by the unexplainable expression on my friends face. "Jesse? are you okay? I didn't get her answer until she trampled something under her breathe, the only thing I was able to make out was the word "Alien". "Jesse I know your just trying to scare me." I said back to her with a careless expression.

As we where walking up the hill I could smell smoke, well after looking at my friend I guess you could say we both smelled it. We looked up to see un-human people looking right back at us with grey eyes and few with grey bodies, few with green. "RUN" I yelled to my friend as we sprinted down the hill into the car as we drove back home.