

2209.22

Bathgate Hill

"It's crazy really, walking up these hills, probably the same ^{foot} steps many Kings and Queens have followed." Carrie explained as her and Cousin Lexi strolled up the steep hill.

Ghosts too, most likely. In fact we are probably walking, along side them at this very moment... Lexi had always been quiet, superstitious and into ghost, spirits.

"Oh stop it Lexi!"

"Ohhhohoo" Lexi mimicked ghost noises

Both girls were stopped by a rustle in the trees. "It's probably deer..." Lexi nodded in agreement. A small whizz of pale yellow brushed past a tree, bringing a gust of wind from behind, the girls spun round, anxiously twisting, turning and spinning in circles.

A bright light flashed and Lexi was gone. Carrie, left on her hands and knees stumbled up and staggered about like a newborn calf, first rising to his feet. She looked around at the circular holes in the ground looked behind her at the green mound.

"Help!" she heard Lexi's muffled voice and ran up the mini hill and began rapidly tugging at the handle of the door on the ground.

"Twist it!" So she did and it flew open with a CLANG. She climbed down into the dark room and hugged Lexi tight. "What happened?" Carrie asked.

"Well when the smoke came the lights went out and I was left in darkness." Carrie was confused. "What lights?"

"I'm not sure, but then a massive light shown above my head and as I looked up, I couldn't quite tell what it was but as I squinted I noticed the light was getting larger..." She explained.

"What Lights!" I said louder. "Well, it turned out it was a UFO. I watched in amazement as it hit the ground, perfectly in the gaps in the ground. These little yellow blobs came out and carried me in, I fought but they were too strong. With a bang and a pop the door closed and the ship shimmered and when I 'woke up' I was here."

"So this mound of grass is an old UFO?" I asked, not even questioning the story or the fact this was seconds long. "Must be..."

The girls hugged once more and then climbed back out in a fit of giggles.