

The memorable Beecraigs Adventure

The memorable Beecraigs adventure

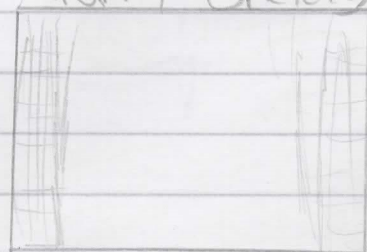

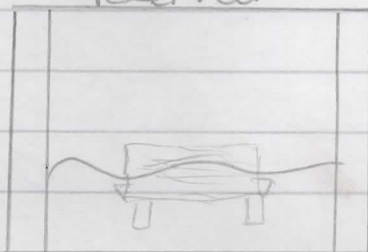

One lovely autumn's day my mum dropped me and my friend Sam off at Beecraigs. All of the trees were taller than we could ever imagine. The trees were like giants they seemed to disappear into the clouds. Sam stood next to the trees and she looked so small like she had been turned into a doll (like this) even though she was the tallest girl in our class. Some of the trees were super thick and some were quite thin, and they swished in the wind. All of the trees were wearing beautiful red and orange leaves.

I was wearing plain black leggings and they were new so they were jet black, I was also wearing my black Adidas jumper. I was wearing lots of black so all the muck wouldn't stain my clothes, Sam was wearing the same because we like being matched. As we started walking further in.

As we started walking further in we noticed people had made a den so we checked, but it was all wet. We walked a lot further and we came to the reservoir and we started walking to the opening of the farm

We noticed something really bad as we got to the highland cows section there was a massive hole in both the fences. We looked behind us and about 10 meters away a huge highland cow came charging. We ran so fast and Sam fell! It came over and took the tuna sandwich out of Sam's pocket. "Ohh" she said "that was what she wanted". I stayed with the cow Caramel while Sam got the farmer and then we helped fix the fence.
