Bathgate Hills

It was a clear night. The stars were shining and the air smelled fresh. 2 teenagers, A boy and a girl, were sat ontop of a rock stargazing. They were both in love with eachother but wouldn't admit it. They sat close to eachother, sharing a cup of hot chocolate that they'd brought in a thermos along with some snacks. As they drank the chocolate, The girl, Sandy passed the cup to the boy, Tristan. They Brushed hands and shared a look that made everything clear. They were destined for eachother. They came closer to eachother. And just as they were about to KISS for the first time, they heard a loud Bang...

The sound came from a cave nearby. Although they were about to share that kiss, they were more fasinated by The sound. Tristan put the cup of choclate down on the ground. The cup was piping hot. Then they made their way to the cave. the growling and snoring became louder as they approched the dark cave. Sandy held a flashlight while Tristan went infront making sure Sandy was behind him at all times.

As they went deeper and deeper they noticed alot of green and grey sludge along the walls. They were getting more and more worried by the minute. Then they noticed these massive footprints in the mud floor and what seemed to be peices of broken eggshell. They were both very confused, because they had got to the end of the cave where they found a old mining cart and a peice of track it sat on.

Sandy noticed that the deeper they got in the cave... the sound had stopped. Suddenly, a massive shadow ran past, as if someone, or something was trying to get away. This ~~case~~ caused both the teens to spin around rapidly. But nothing was there until the big shadow appeared in front of them... the growling and snoring returned but louder and scarier. They stood still hoping the thing standing behind them would go away. Suddenly a drop of greenish-grey sludge dropped onto sandy's head, covering her shiny blonde hair. She screamed. The hot chocolate became cold. They never returned to drink it. And never will.

A few weeks later a group of hikers along with their dog were exploring the hills. when they saw a blue bag on top of a flat rock. In there was some school books and other junk. Also, a cup of hot chocolate on the ground that was overrun by ants. But then they noticed the cave from which a green and grey sludge appeared. And a runny red liquid...
