(45 words)

I woke up excited today, me and my friends were going to go on an adventure up at the Bathgate Hills. I got dressed*packed a basket with bread and jam. I kissed mum goodbye and headed out for an amazing day. I arrived there about ten minutes later because I don't live far away so I was first there but in a short amount of time after, everyone arrived, me, Daniel, Victoria, James and Harriet. James was kind of the leader no one had ever mentioned it but everyone knew. James always said that there was a lady with no face, a white night dress and stringy black hair, and that she would snatch up children and kill them but everyone would just laugh. He would say she roamed the hills every night at 12.00 am.

We had some bread and headed out. We decided we would go through the woods and make a massive wooden den. We decided to split up to gather materials, wood, leaves, juicy red berries ect.

I was with Victoria, Daniel and Harriet were going to get wood, and James offered to go by himself to gather berries. We had picked our spot, it was a small clearing where the sunlight reached and there were beautiful, vibrant flowers. Me and Victoria were collecting fern leaves from a big patch of them. We got a lot of them and headed back. On the way back the sun started to drop. We hadn't realised how long this had taken. We got there were Daniel and Harriet were already there. They said they heard a loud scream and ran back. We got worried and decided we would wait for James then head home.

We waited about 2 hours and still no sign of James. We started shouting for him. Then out of no where a wind picked up and the breeze carried James t-shirt covered in blood and dropped it at our feet...
