

The Cockleroy Monster by Jude

It was a freezing morning at the bottom of the Cockleroy. Nelly the fox-red cavapoo and Buddy the chocolate labrador were excited to go on their walk! The dogs were about to go up the hill, but they noticed the hill looked different than usual. The Cockleroy had dark, dead grass but it normally had lush green grass. When Buddy and Nelly got about one quarter up the hill they heard something moving from the bush, they looked around, but they couldn't see a thing in sight. When the dogs got half way up the hill, they heard more rustling coming from the bushes. Suddenly, a massive, green creature pounced out of the bush! Nelly and Buddy were petrified! The creature also had HUGE teeth! They dashed to the top of the Cockleroy but the creature followed them. On the creature's neck it said 'Lizzie'. The dogs recognised the name.

Suddenly, Lizzie tried to bite Nelly but she luckily dodged Lizzie's mouth. As the dogs got closer to the edge of the hill they started to panic and worry. Suddenly Lizzie disappeared, Buddy and Nelly were confused. They looked behind but Lizzie wasn't in sight. As the dogs started to walk down the hill Lizzie suddenly appeared. The dogs didn't know what to do. Then suddenly Lizzie vanished, Buddy and Nelly had butterflies in their tummies. Nelly and Buddy dashed to the bottom of the Cockleroy like flash. When the dogs got away from Lizzie they were relieved, so relieved.

Nelly and Buddy saw Lizzie pounce out a bush, but Lizzie didn't realise Buddy and Nelly were already at the bottom of the Cocklebury. The dogs looked at Lizzie up on the hill and just smiled. As Buddy and Nelly started to walk back to the car everything started to go blurry. Suddenly Buddy and Nelly woke up from sleeping it was all a dream.
