

The Hill Beast Sami

As night time fell, all the highland coos fell asleep except one. This cow had really scruffy brown fur big horns.

He walked lazely up the hill when a suddenly a powerfull gail arrived.

This cow did not care, he just kept eating & eating the licious green grass. On his third patch of grass several mini boulders started to roll onto their sides. He kept on eating. They rolled more & more but he just kept on eating & munching until the boulders hit the bottom of the hill & cracked open.

The cow looked up to see what happed, everything was still. The wind swayed the grass and trees.

The rocky, grassy & mossy hill cracked open, he ran while chewing grass.

The hill exploded, rocks flew every where.

He didn't know know what to do. An orangy light shone out of the cracks until the hill crumbled away. There was a cloud of dust but the orange light could still be seen, but it was dim.

A shadow moved, something stood up and sort of groned. It slowly moved out of the mist & into clear sight.

It stumbled around & was clearly tired. it was a dim orange like the light, it had a stoneg scaley texture. Its teeth were green & yellow with a sharp red tongue hissed & flicked out of it long snout mouth. When it saw the cow it clumsily ran over him and snatched him. The cow moed in pain & struggling. Its thrills sprang up as the cow disappered in the mist. The Lizard sort of straightend up and seemed more steady & evil. Its name was "Komodo".

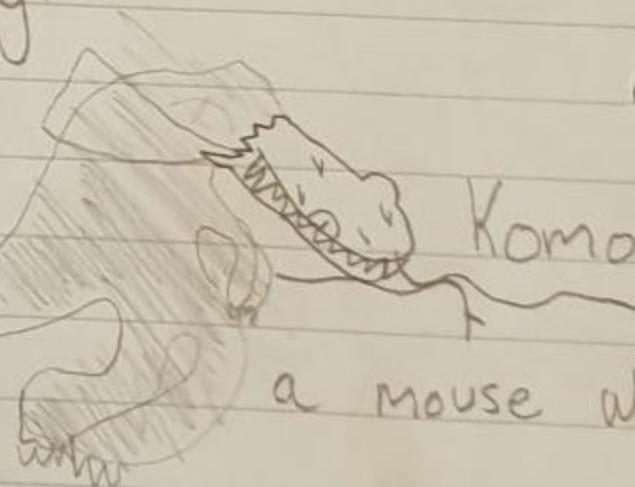

24ft

Sammi

"Crunch, crunch, crunch!"

It roared and other cows thatwoke up all the were sleeping.Its eyes lit up <sup>like a wildfire</sup>The beast had be sleeping for over 200 years & hadn't eaten for a long time.It raced the cows like a horse, slowly picking them off one by one. The farmer won't have milk for a while!Komodo wondered looking for water.  Though he was the size of a house he was dead silent, sneaking into someones swimming pool in their back garden.The pool was pristine until the dirt washed off his nose.
A boy named Felix woke up and looked out his window to see what the slipping nose was.
BUT! He didn't see anything?

Komodo could turn invisible!

He heard a dog, except didn't know what a dogHe followed it, still as silent as way back to the hill.The dog skidded to the edge of the hill.
Komodo snapped his jaws but the dog had & the beast fell over the side of the cliff.

Thud!

It has lain there for a century and will lie there for more!